BEAVER "FISH"

In the early days of Quebec, the beaver was considered "fish" on Fridays. This allowance was made so that trappers could eat the animal, without sin, on that day, because of the scarcity of food in the severe winters.

Success of Blood Program In Warren May Be Handicapped By Lack of Donors

The second blood collection in Warren, under the National Red Cross program, began this morning at ten o'clock. Despite difficulties in securing the essential number of blood donors, it is hoped that Warren county will again reach its monthly quota of 100 pints of whole blood. Should the lethargy displayed thus far in the community continue, the local chapter may be forced to withdraw as a participant in the program.

The blood program chairman, Howard Lauffenberger, in a statement made today said, "It is difficult to understand how the citizens of Warren and Warren county can fail to respond to this call for blood donors. In other communities, the recruitment committees have been able to build up a reserve list for future bloodmobile visits. Here, a certain few hundred have shouldered the full responsibility for thousands of healthy persons. Whole blood collected in Warren benefits every person and every family in Warren county should they need blood." "This is destined to be a far-reaching program," Mr. Lauffenberger continued, "far-reaching, that is, if Warren county people will wake up to the fact that blood without charge might mean life or death to them, their loved ones or their friends and neighbors. Some men and women have seen the light, others may be putting it off till next time. But, the time is NOW! To those who have pledged or given blood, the entire community owes a rising vote of thanks."

The next visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile is scheduled for Thursday, August 10, from 10 a. m. 'til 4 p. m. It is hoped that at least 200 pledged donors will be on call at that time.

KEEP AMERICA OUT OF WAR

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS are coming to realize the grave danger to world peace in the intervention of the Truman Administration in the conflict in Korea.

- U. S. Air and Sea Forces are now being used in actual warfare;
- The lives of American boys in the Navy and Air forces are now being recklessly endangered by the Brass Hats of Washington;
- The use of American armed forces puts our country in the line of fire of the peace of the world.

'PEACE' IN OUR TIME

Commies around the world are working overtime to sell the Kremlin story that the Korean situation is a war of "Wall Street versus the Korean people." The leaflet above, issued by the Communist Party of Ohio, and the petition at right, "made available by" the Peace Information Center of New York, were among those distributed in a Cleveland, O., public housing project. The FBI investigated, but can take no action unless some specific law is broken.

When the Twin Lakes recreational area was changed from a free use to a charge use basis last year it was but one of less than a hundred representative areas throughout the National Forest system selected for a trial program of making such areas self-supporting.

Such a policy was radically different from the policy that has been carried out in the past on the 4,500 camp and picnic places on the national forests. Traditionally, recreation in the national forests has been informal, free of charge and in harmony with a forest environment. In carrying this out simply, appropriateness and a minimum of rules were the keynotes. Most of the facilities were built by the Civilian Conservation Corps over a relatively short period. Because these facilities are now all roughly of the same age they are wearing out at about the same time. In the meantime, since the CCC program has been dissolved a tremendous increase in the number of forest users has developed.

With this increase of users has come a proportionate number of thoughtless individuals who destroy property and defoul the campgrounds. These few people cost the Government—the people of the United States, including themselves—large sums of money each year by their thoughtlessness. The only way to guarantee any assurance of always maintaining a desirable situation on the public recreation areas on the Allegheny Forest is to have a man on the ground daily at each area. With the limited funds available for handling recreation this is not possible. So only the largest area on the Allegheny, Twin Lakes with its heavy investment in improvements, has had daily supervision.

Recently Congressional Committees have felt that since National Parks and Monuments use the fee system and are thus able to deposit receipts from recreational use into the Treasury it is difficult to understand why National Forests, with their recreational developments, do not do likewise. Both National Parks and National Forests belong to the people of the United States so it can easily be argued that it is fair to charge for recreation on the former land it is equally fair to do so on the latter.

Last year the first trial period of charging for use of facilities at Twin Lakes resulted in so little revenue to the private individual who took the concession that he did not make a fair return on his investment. He was permitted last year to collect 5c and 10c from picnickers and 50c a car from campers. From the money collected he supervised and policed the area, furnished a lifeguard, furnished camp wood, and did maintenance work on the existing improvements. He made a very small payment to the government and had to hire all of his help and pay many other operating costs, including taxes and license fees.

In order to assure a reasonable return on the investment of the concessionaire, who all admit has been doing an excellent job, it was clear that something had to be done before another season rolled around.

Supervisor Costley, therefore, consulted representative citizens from towns benefiting most from Twin Lakes and secured universal agreement for raising the fees for picnicking and swimming to 20c for adults and 10c for children for the 1950 season.

The charge use for the facilities at Twin Lakes it must be remembered is still just an experiment, and may not be a permanent thing. In the meantime free use of the facilities of the other seven campgrounds on the Forest will continue as before.

CARRYING THE BURDEN IN KOREA

Battlefront reports describing the first American fighting in Korea did not make cheerful news. The slogging retreat recalled the bitter days of Bataan in the Philippines at the start of World War II.

But General MacArthur has assured Washington that the situation is not critical. So our military leaders are not deeply troubled at the ground lost and the reverses suffered by U. S. forces. They are confident we can throw back the North Korean invaders beyond their boundary at the 38th parallel.

The rather unhappy beginning for the Americans emphasizes, however, that this task is not one to be accomplished off-handedly with a mild show of strength. The North Korean Reds are well trained and well equipped. Their 150 to 160 tanks were decisive in the early advances. Their field tactics reflect expert schooling from their masters in Moscow.

In any military action so fluid as the Korean war has been thus far, the first goal of the opposing force must be to establish a solid line, to check the headlong rush of the aggressors. That is not an easy thing under the circumstances which prevailed in South Korea.

The South Korean army was ill-equipped to combat the North Koreans' armor. Though U. S. military advisers rated the South Koreans' morale and fighting qualities high, they showed a marked tendency to fold up when confronted by tanks or the threat of tanks.

With the men and equipment America could put into the fight immediately, there could have been no great hope of halting the Reds from the moment contact was made. Our forces were small. Our jet fighters were too fast for tree-level attacks on enemy columns and installations. The B-29 is a big target bomber and consequently out of place as a tactical weapon against bridges and gun emplacements.

Time and the over-water movement of men and materials will change this. As a defense line becomes stabilized across the Korean peninsula, we will begin the tedious but necessary building up of strength behind that front.

Eventually the moment will come when we will have sufficient power to strike back in real force, to roll the invaders back and restore South Korea to its rightful rulers.

Apparently we cannot expect too much help from the South Koreans themselves in this operation. It will have to be largely an American show. But we shall see it through nevertheless. For the price of failure—open invitation to further Red aggression—is greater than any cost that could arise from the Korean war even should that conflict stretch out over many painful months.

Naturally we should ask other members of the United Nations for whatever aid they can give, but we must recognize that some countries, like Britain and France, cannot extend much help without dangerously weakening the defenses against Communism at other vital points. Basically, the job is ours.

LAST CHANCE TO MAKE QUOTA

Warren county has been visited by the Liberty Bell replica, the symbol of the Treasury Department's Savings Bond Independence Drive, on its 3,600 mile tour throughout the state of Pennsylvania, and while it was well received when it appeared in this county, the reason for its visit seems to have escaped some of us.

The Bell and the Bond stand for one of our foremost American ideals and beliefs, that of personal financial independence. To date, our County's record of E Bond sales is not too good, and, if we are to reach our quota, many additional series "E" Bonds must be purchased.

Your neighbor who has accumulated a nestegg of savings through the regular purchase of Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan at his place of employment, or at his bank or postoffice, will tell you that there is no other easier or comparable way to acquire a backlog of savings offering an opportunity to have money to start your own business—an opportunity to give your children a higher education—an opportunity—in short, to have the money you need to do the good things you've always wanted.

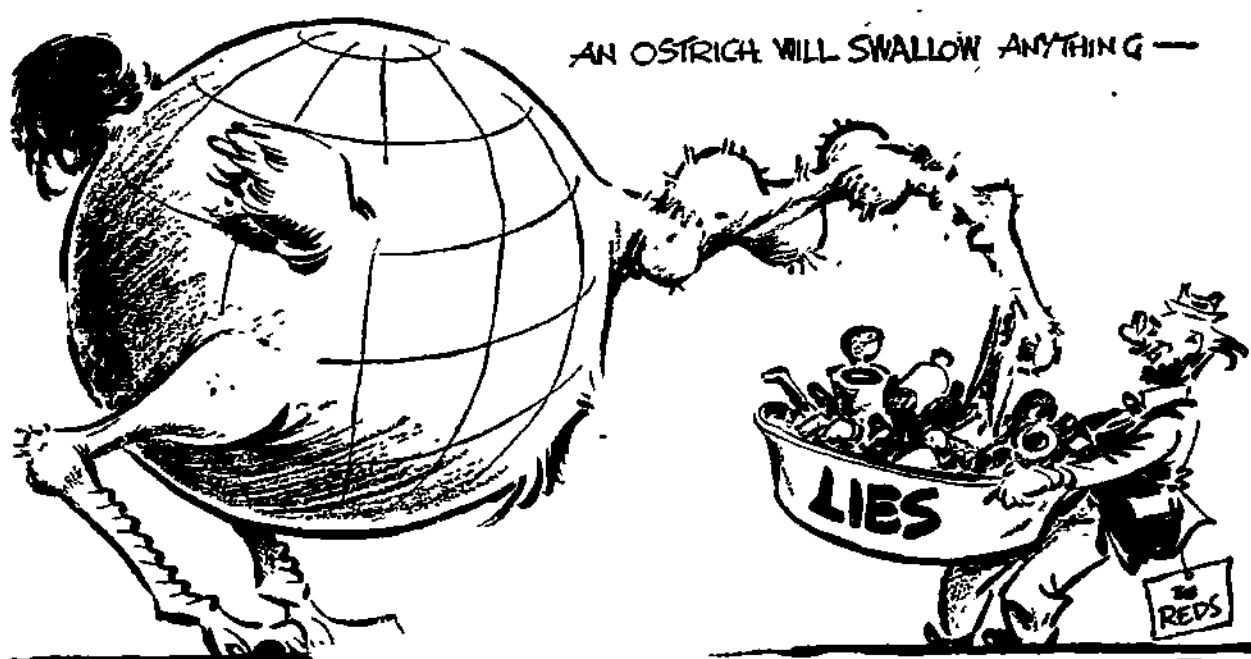

Glenn Stone, county chairman, urges everyone in Warren county to buy an extra series "E" Savings Bond before the conclusion of the accounting period of the Independence Drive, July 17, (all Bonds purchased up to and through July 17 will be included in the final sales), so that our county will attain its quota.

While Pennsylvania leads all other states in the Bond sale drive, Warren county has reached but 47.4 percent of its quota, as compared to nearby McKean which is listed at 54.6 percent.

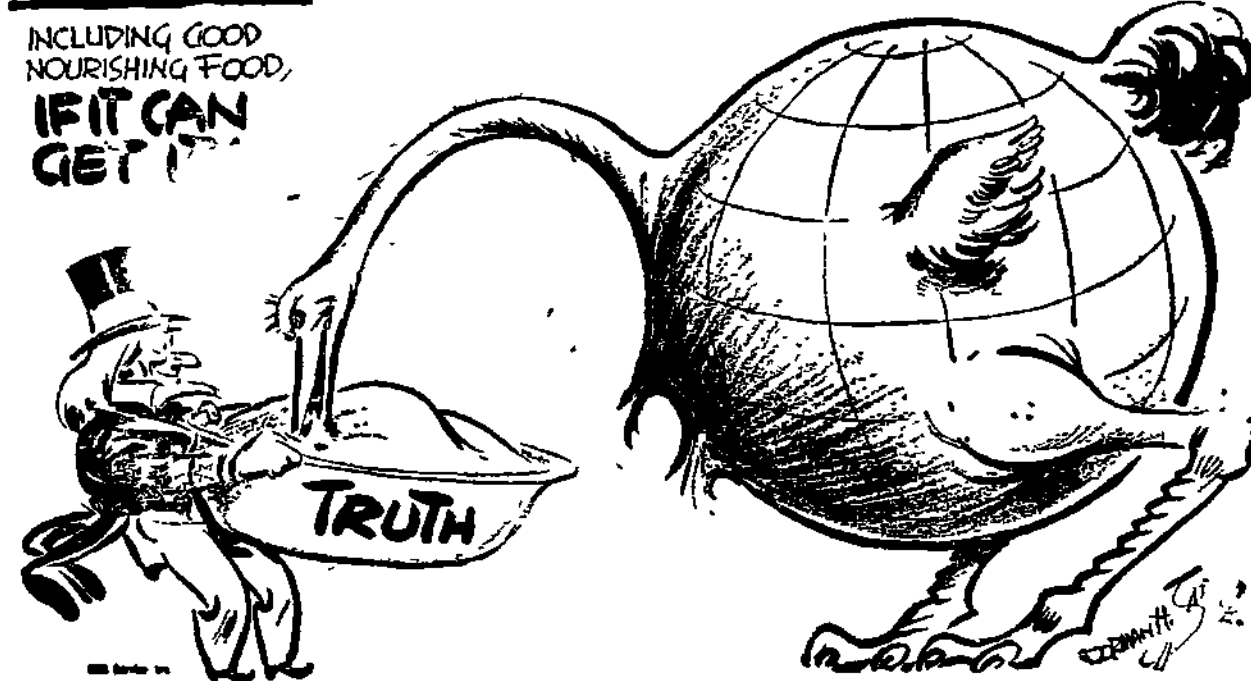

In all of the War Bond drives and those conducted since the end of the war, Warren county has always attained or surpassed its quota one hundred percent. Let's keep our record intact.

NOURISHING FOOD,

Here And There

Just how much retailers in northwestern Pennsylvania communities depended upon train schedules for their business back in 1886, is emphasized in the following taken from an issue of the Warren Ledger printed in July of that year: "Titusville has just found out what ails her. Warren is taking the trade which she greatly desires, but can't get because of the awkwardness in the running of trains over the Titusville and Dunkirk roads. If, by the present system, a Warren purchaser, for instance, and such an one would be crazy who should go to Titusville, to purchase goods, has an hour only before the return train starts back. To remedy this state of affairs Superintendent Thayer has been waited upon by a committee, asking him to change the timetable so as to allow more time for shopping. The World alleges that goods are cheaper in that place than in Warren, for the reason that rents are less, and because, no doubt, that Titusville merchants pay cash for goods, not being in condition to obtain credit. Warren merchants are ahead of Titusville, and will be, their stocks are always complete. They get goods on telegraphic orders; they get them in blocks, by the tons, and carloads—they have the goods and consequently, can and do supply the people along the line of the Dunkirk road, from Jamestown, to and including these two boastful towns. The reasons rents are high here is that merchants can afford to pay them, business is brisk, sales enormous so that even on small profits they are enabled to sell cheaper than their neighbors and still pay fair rents. Titusville may get a few dollars' worth more of trade by a different management of the road, but Superintendent Thayer understands that it is Warren that pays the expense of the whole line, so to speak, and will hardly discriminate against a town which supports the road."

Chapman postcards from Harrisburg, where he has been on business. . . From activities around our neighbor, the Texas Lunch, it would seem safe to anticipate that when it reopens next week patrons will find a large number of improvements have been made by Pete Fanaritis during the time that the place has been closed for annual vacations. . . Understand the response list to the invitations sent out for the Warren High School Class of '25 reunion is growing by leaps and bounds, with the total already reaching the 75 mark. A number who haven't been around town much since their graduation have signified their intention of being on hand. . . It isn't every bride who has natural bird songs as part of her wedding music and the pessimists among us may deprecate it as a mere coincidence, but a "once in a lifetime" instance has come to our attention and we pass it along as a lovely thought. While Mildred May Palmer and Jimmie Cooney were being married in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knupp, at Starbrick, a wren perched atop a birdhouse in the arbor and gave out several snatches of a song that blended perfectly with the solemn ceremony. . . J. Edgar Masters, past grand exalted ruler, well known to many members of the Warren Lodge of Elks through his frequent visits here during the past quarter of a century, was re-elected grand secretary, at the annual convention in Miami this week. He has held the post since 1927. . . Charley Berry, who qualifies as one of the oldest grocery store clerks in Warren, is now serving patrons at Riegle's/Red and White store at 809 Pennsylvania avenue east. Charley, who has held positions at the Banner and Fredericksons, will be glad to greet his many old friends in his new location. . . June set another all-time record for volume of passenger traffic at Bradford-McKean airport, according to Dave Scott, airport general manager. Now fewer than 977 air travelers, many of them from the Warren area, either arrived in or left Bradford by air last month. . . "The Bird" column in the Kane Republican tells an interesting wildlife story about bears that frequent a dump on the Bull Hill road two miles from Sheffield. It seems that the animals appear at the dump each evening about the same hour, and usually find a crowd of people on hand to see them. One evening recently they deviated from their usual procedure. Occupants of several cars were standing around awaiting the appearance of the bears. While they stood there chatting and were just about to give up when someone spied the bears—not where they should be, but over near the cars, just quietly watching their visitors. The scramble for cars was something for the movies, according to the hilltop writer.

Perfume That Clings

Q—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay" with them is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.75 plus tax at Mullen Drug Co. (adv.)

BERLIN SCHOOLGIRL TO REPRESENT GERMANY ON VISIT TO THE U. S.

Copyright, 1950, by Acme Newspictures

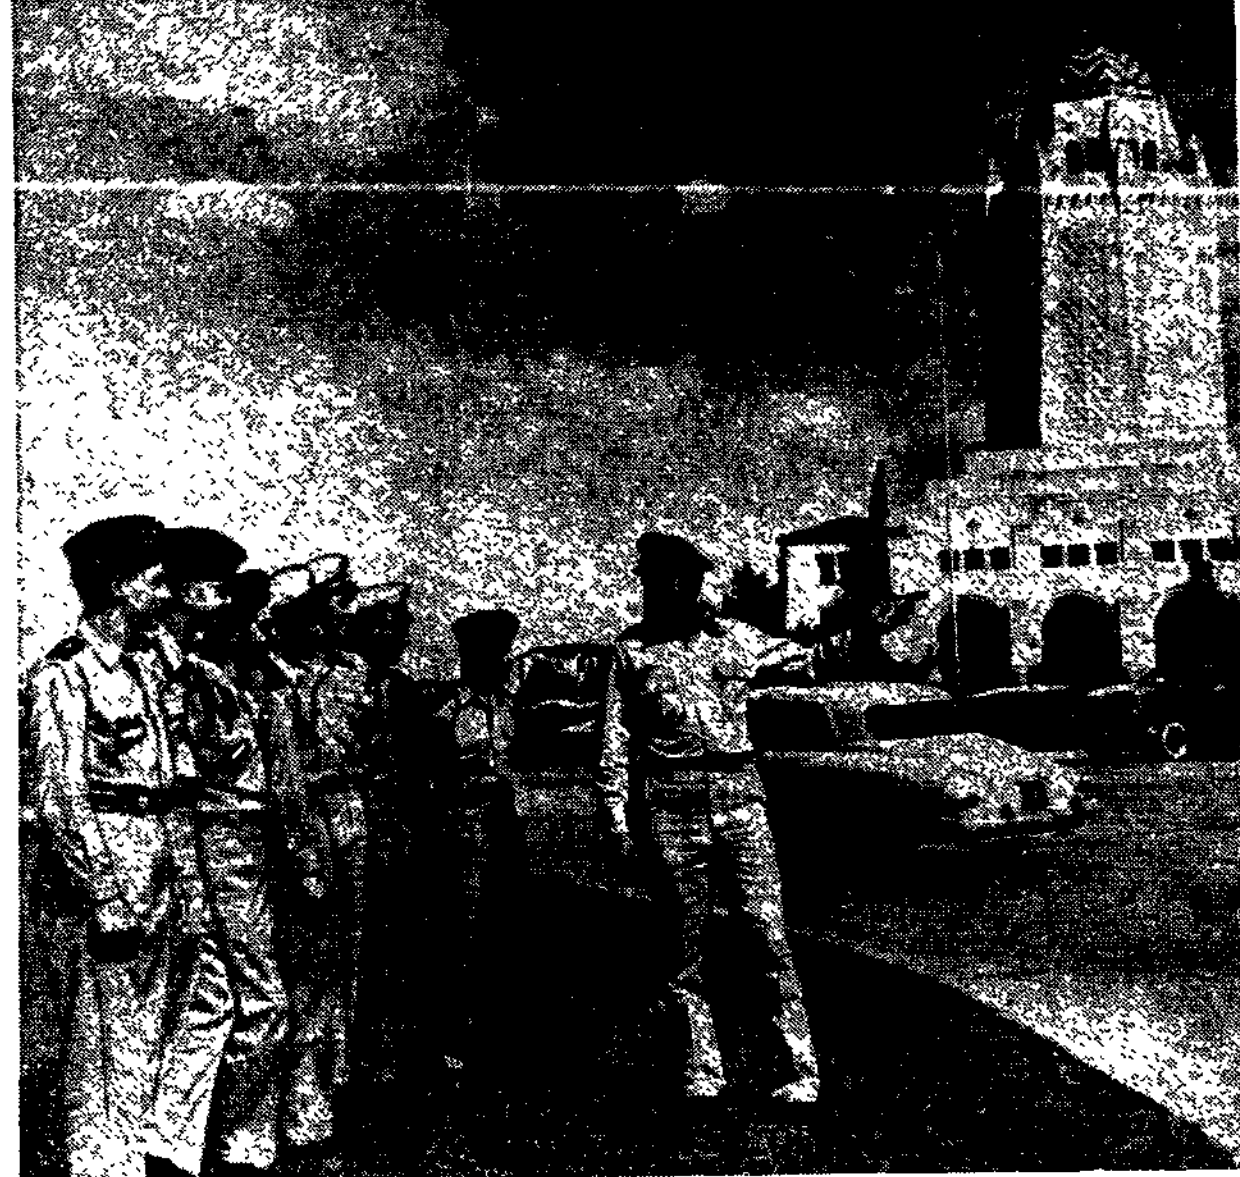

MEMBERS OF FRENCH AIR FORCE GET TRAINING AT AIR BASE IN TEXAS

TO REPRESENT GERMANY—Eva Maria Gfroerer, 15-year-old schoolgirl in Berlin, who has been chosen to represent Germany on a State Department sponsored visit to the U. S., plays with her pet chow dogs in the garden of her home in the U. S. sector. Eva is one of 22 European and Middle East youngsters who will visit some of the leading American cities.

PATCHED PIRATE—The lady can be seated on enormous red patch pockets in Schiaparelli's navy cotton slacks which reach mid-calf and are slit to the knee at back. Shown in Paris, the pirate slacks are teamed with a full-cut blue cotton blouse.

FISH TALE—All beauties, these two sets of twins! Jean and Joan Corbett, twin sisters, each hooked identical seven-pound twin bass while fishing near Las Vegas, Nev. The girls named the fish Minnie and Jinnie, but they didn't live long because Jean and Joan ate Minnie and Jinnie for dinner.

WOOD FINDS HOME PLATE—Ken Wood, right fielder for the St. Louis Browns, is safe at home plate after beating a throw from Bob Avila, Cleveland Indians second baseman, to catcher Ray Murray. Murray, receiving the catch, dropped the ball during Wood's run in a game at the Cleveland, O., Stadium. Umpire Ed Rommell calls the play. The Indians won first, 8-7; lost second, 8-3.

Frontline dispatches said the American troops retreated to new, exposed positions behind the impenetrable Kun river.

The meandering river is the natural barrier between the 15th and 16th south by road. The city has an American advanced headquarters. It is on the main South-Szechwan rail line from the southern supply port of Pusan.

Associated Press Correspondent H. P. King said advanced American headquarters had planned to pull U. S. troops back of the line if necessary. The river, only 200 yards wide at some points, offers a natural line of defense.

King said headquarters believes can make a stand there until enough men and supplies arrive to counterattack.

American engineers have mined a modern bridge across the Kun River, but did not say whether the bridge had been blown up.

Anger swept the American lines over the killing of at least 18 American prisoners, their hands cut off by the advancing Communists.

A communique from headquarters of General MacArthur, supreme United Nations commander in the Korean fighting, said the acts of "barbarity and murder" had been authenticated. Official photographs of four slain Americans showed their hands were tied behind their back before they were shot through the head. The photographer wrote in his report to headquarters: "This is not killed in action. I killed it murder."

MacArthur's communique said the North Korean war leaders will be held responsible.

First men called for physicals, Gross said, will be 25-year-olds, who are non-veterans and single. Then the procedure will work downwards in the age groups.

Gross said the bulk of the quota probably would be provided from the 23-21 age group since most of the men in the upper groups are either veterans of World War Two or are married.

He expects that each board, after it receives its quota, will call up "a considerable number in excess of its quota" to allow for rejections.

Washington, July 12—(AP)—The army said today that draftees will be given 14 weeks of training and then will be assigned first to posts within the United States.

Later, some will go overseas but a spokesman said the number going over "will not be large nor happen soon."

The spokesman also said that if the first call for 20,000 draftees has the indirect result of bringing in large numbers of volunteers a second draft call may not be needed to bring the army up to its present ceiling of 630,000. However, he did not discount the possibility that the ceiling might be raised.

The present strength of the army is 593,000.

There will be no numbers drawing for the draft. The birth date is the big factor in determining which men will be called to duty.

iversity of Pittsburgh and Forbes Field. This is the Oakland section, the center of the city.

Most of the guests were in bed when the shooting began. A few conversed in the sedate gold and marble appointed lobby. The hotel night employees were busy with routine tasks. Kunde sat at his desk in the center of the lobby, reading.

Colianne, reconstructing the shooting, said Omogrosso killed Morano in the basement. He reloaded his revolver, dashed upstairs through the hotel ballroom and into the lobby.

Kunde was the second target. Colianne said the watchman, yelling wildly, rushed up to the night manager, shot him three times in the face, neck and shoulder.

Seconds later, Harper was struck by two bullets in the face and neck.

Then Omogrosso, still screaming incoherently, pulled the trigger twice more, the bullets ricocheting off the marbled lobby walls.

At this point Colianne, accompanied by Patrolman John James, came in.

The police lieutenant said Omogrosso jammed his pistol into James' side. Both officers grappled with the watchman, finally subdued him.

New Move Made To Have Bridges Jailed

Washington, July 12—(AP)—A senate judiciary subcommittee was set up today to look into the possibility of having Harry Bridges' $100,000 bond revoked. That would mean the west coast labor leader would have to go to jail.

Bridges, a native of Australia, was convicted and given a five-year prison sentence in April on a charge of lying about Communist connections when he applied for U. S. citizenship. A federal court in San Francisco has ordered his citizenship canceled.

The citizenship proceeding was held up, however, pending an appeal by the CIO Longshoremen's chief from the perjury conviction.

Creation of the senate subcommittee came in the wake of reports that Bridges has opposed a resolution by west coast longshoremen to condemn the Communist invasion of South Korea. A union meeting to consider the resolution broke up in a fight.

War Causes Foreboding At Pentagon

perhaps another three weeks of bad news, or more falling back by American and Korean forces, should be expected before the build-up of strength begins to pay off.

The concern evidenced privately in some Pentagon quarters was that if North Korea's Communist friends in Russia and China start sending in hundreds of thousands of volunteers the conflict may swell into a prolonged, major-scale war even though the theater remains localized in that part of the far east.

It was recalled that more than a week ago there were reports of about 200,000 Chinese Communist troops assembling on the Manchurian border with the apparent intention of moving to the aid of the North Korean army.

There now are reasons to believe that force was only the beginning, that the foreign support for the North Koreans poised to come to their aid may have become much greater.

Plenty of Color In All-Star Game

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Chicago, July 12.—(P)—The little, old man in grey slacks, white shirt and polka-dot tie stepped out of the dugout.

Lusty boos from some 46,000 fans thundered out of the Comiskey Park grandstand.

The little man just stood there. Suddenly, he took off his blue Dodge baseball cap and held it in his hand.

The boos continued. But Burt Shotton, 65-year-old manager of the National League All Stars, broke into a wide smile.

He beamed for three minutes, just standing there, as if waiting for his picture to be snapped. Then came a rippling of applause.

Shotton, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, replaced his cap, stepped jauntily back into the dugout and directed the Senior League's All Stars to a sparkling 14-inning 4-3 win over the American League All Stars.

Never in the history of the mid-summer classic had there been such adverse reaction from fans when a manager was introduced in pre-game ceremonies.

The boos came from the Chicago crowd because several days previously Shotton had tried to replace Outfielder Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs and the fans' starting choice in the country wide poll, with his own Brooklyn player, Duke Snider.

After the game the happy Shotton, whose astute handling helped produce a 4-3 National League triumph over the American Leaguers in 14 innings, said:

"I stood out there long enough with my hat off to let them get a

THE SCOREBOARD

Mack's 50th Year With A's Not Golden—He'll Lose $400,000

By NED BROWN
Bating for Harry Grayson,
NEA Sports Editor, who is on vacation.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is regrettable that Connie Mack's 50th year as the only manager the Athletics ever had is to wind up on a somber note.

Based on the sad figures to date, Mr. Mack estimates that the Philadelphia Athletics will lose $400,000 this trip.

It is hardly the Golden Anniversary that was expected and so desire. The franchise is for sale, and it is understood the asking price is $2,200,000.

The panic is on. A board of trustees, which now runs the works, was on the verge of selling Ferris Fair to the Tigers and Alex Kellner to the Yankees just before the June 15 deadline. The first baseman would have brought $200,000, the southpaw $100,000 and players.

The board at the last minute decided to retain the prized peons. It feared that their departure would reduce the sale price of the club.

At 87 and in his 66th year in baseball, Mr. Mack finds himself surrounded by three other Macks and a half dozen Shibes, and with little to say.

The moving forces now are the younger Connie Mack, Jr., and Benny MacFarland, the club secretary and a Shibe.

In an effort to make Mr. Mack's jubilee memorable, perhaps even win the octogenarian one more pennant, the Macks and Shibes got their heads together long enough to deal the Browns $100,000 and four athletes for Third Baseman Bob Dillinger and Outfielder Paul Lehner.

But the anticipated brilliant pitching collapsed with injuries a second-string catching and the playmaking shortstop, Eddie Joca, slowed down.

The A's rapidly were battling the Browns for the basement. Fain is the only infielder under 31, Valiant Volo the lone outfielder on the sunny side of 30.

The club requires a complete rebuilding.

The park could stand considerable refurbishing, especially in regard to the seating arrangements.

The A's of today would be a deadly serious challenge to even the Connie Mack who won nine pennants and five world championships.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Out of Blessing, Tex., came Walter Heffelfinger on one of his semi-annual trips to the effete East.

Pudge Heffelfinger wanders off his western range every June to be on hand for the annual Yale alumni reunion at New Haven, and again in the fall to see the Yale-Harvard football game.

In a visit at the Yale Club, the conversation naturally turned to football—Yale football. Up popped the name of Walter Camp.

"They rarely mention Camp as a player," said Pudge; "mostly folks think of him as a coach. But it really should be the other way 'round. In fact, he was what you might call an 'armchair coach'."

Well, it was in 1888 that Yale rang up 699 points to their opponents' none in 13 games. And in the record book it says: Coached by Walter Camp. How come?

"SEEMS when Walter agreed to take over the squad for nothing, he forgot a guy had to eat and pay rent. So he took a job in the afternoon watch factory. His idea was to sneak off in the afternoon and tell him he had to decide which it was going to be—football or a good job."

So he resigned?

"Nope, he handled the coaching by proxy. Every afternoon he'd send his wife, a sister of Billy Sommers, Yale professor, down to the practice field. She'd usually take along Ann Richards, who had a couple of brothers playing on the squad. They'd sit on the bench and chart our plays, take notes, etc."

"These they'd take to Camp, who'd go over the stuff with our captain, Pa Corben, in the evenings. It went like that all season."

Pudge meditated for a few minutes, then said:

"You know, I just realized a funny thing: Camp's greatest fame today is his all-America teams. But he inaugurated something that will last as long as football. That's the would-be coach who always sets up the chairs, or the table utensils, loaves of sugar and what-not, to explain his formations that will beat Notre Dame!"

"There's one in every group of more than three, in football time!"

BIG FIGHT IS RAINED OUT A SECOND NIGHT

Philadelphia, July 12.—(P)—Rained out two nights in succession, lightweight champion Ike Williams and George (Sugar) Costner will try again tonight to get in their scheduled 10-round non-title scrap at Shibe Park.

But before fight time, Costner may have a battle with the scales. The negro welterweight from Camden, N. J., weighed 146 pounds at Monday's original weigh-in. But since the fight has been postponed more than 24 hours, he and Williams will have to step on the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission scales again.

According to contract terms, Costner agreed to come in at 148 pounds or lower. He weighed 146 Monday but is believed to be considerably above that figure now. He'll have to dry out early today to take off excess poundage.

Weight was of little concern to Williams. The Trenton, N. J., negro was 143 on Monday, an all-time high for him.

LAMOTTA IS 5 TO 7 FAVORITE TONIGHT

New York, July 12.—(P)—Middleweight Champion Jake Lamotta bucks a double jinx tonight when he defends his title against unbeaten Tiberio Mitri of Italy in Madison Square Garden.

The last three middleweight kings, Marcel Cerdan, Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano, all lost their crowns in their first defenses. All three were favored to win.

Lamotta is a 5 to 7 choice to capture the 15-rounder (starting at 9 p. m., EST) in his first defense since he won the championship from the ill-fated Cerdan.

But Jake firmly believes "it's not going to happen to me."

"This title is the thing I've always wanted and I'm going to keep it a long time. I'm in better shape for this fight than I've been in years."

How Hudson's exclusive recessed floor brings you America's Roomiest Car!

HUDSON

Recessed floor ("step-down" design) brings the space between frame members, which is wasted in other cars, into Hudson's passenger compartment. This results in America's lowest center of gravity (and full road clearance), while providing more head room and seating room than any other car.

OTHER CARS

Floor is on top of the frame, so the vital space between frame members is not available for passenger use. The result is a higher center of gravity and either a high roof line or insufficient head room. Seats are narrower; passenger space is reduced.

The new, lower-priced Pacemaker brings you all of Hudson's great advantages for just a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars!

Clarendon, Annex
Garage Nines Win
Junior Loop Games

Clarendon Merchants, after six scoreless innings, rallied in the top half of the seventh frame to edge Starbrick Community Association Juniors, 3-1, in a hard-fought Hot Stove Junior baseball scrap at Starbrick last night.

In another Junior scrap, Annex Garage racked up a 6-1 triumph over Sylvania on Beyer field.

Starbrick punched across a single tally in the first inning. Sigworth for Starbrick and Vesling for Clarendon then staged a pitching duel in which neither side was able to score until Clarendon's three-run spurge in the seventh.

Vesling, the winning pitcher, struck out six men and walked four; Sigworth whiffed 13 batters and issued five free passes. Vesling put the clincher on the game by retiring the first three Starbrick batters in order in the last of the seventh, with Fisher getting credit for a nifty catch of a long fly into right field.

Annex Garage won its game with six runs on four hits and six errors. Sylvania could plate only one run on six hits and four errors.

Batteries were: Westtig and Johnson, Townley for Annex Garage; and Skinner, Gnage and Laufberger for Sylvania.

Morris clouted the only extra-base blow for the losers, while McClement had a triple for Annex Garage.

Control Bean Beetles—Most effective control for Mexican bean beetles, according to J. O. Pepper, extension entomologist of the Pennsylvania State College, is to dust or spray with rotenone applied to the underside of the leaves. Put the treatment on as soon as the beetles appear or when eggs are first noticed on the leaves.

Cut and Peel Pulpwood—Certain species of trees still can be cut at this time for pulpwood while the wood peels easily, reminds W. W. Simonds, extension forester of the Pennsylvania State College. Peeled wood brings a better price than the unpeeled, but be sure to have a contract with the nearest pulp mill before starting to cut.

Provide Swine Comfort—Pasture is the best place for hogs in the summertime. However, they should have plenty of fresh water and available shade, says L. C. Madison, extension livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. In the absence of natural shade, a few posts and poles and some straw or hay will take its place.

Sell the Roosters—Do not waste feed on the roosters when the hatching season is past, warns C. O. Dossin, Penn State extension poultry specialist. You may want to save a few good ones for next year, but market the rest and save feed and space.

Protect Vegetables—To keep rabbits from eating them, spray vegetables with one ounce of aluminum sulphate dissolved in a gallon of water to which is added a cup of hydrated lime, explains R. H. Thompson, Penn State ex-

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

TOURNEY HAND SET BY A SINGLETON SIX

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service
The approach of the Summer National Championships, which will be held in Columbus, O., the first week of August, reminds me of one of the remarkable hands played in last year's national tournament. It led to one of the most unusual tricks ever won in a bridge game.

As usual in tournaments, this hand was played at many tables. The South player almost always managed to make 12 tricks, although a trump lead would have given him trouble. At one table, however, the defenders earned themselves a very fine score by holding the declarer to 11 tricks even without an opening trump lead.

At this table, West opened the three of clubs. Declarer planned to ruff hearts in dummy and clubs in his own hand, thus making his

Harry Fishbein, well-known New York City expert, held the East cards. He couldn't be sure that his play in trumps would do much good, but he knew it could do no harm. It was to have a startling effect. South over-ruffed with the king of spades and ruffed a third heart in dummy. He then led dummy's last club. Fishbein rose to the occasion once again by ruffing with the five of spades. Having begun his little campaign, he was not going to abandon it. South over-ruffed with the nine of spades and ruffed his last heart with dummy's last trump. Now de-

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington—(P)—Everything seemed so much the same—except for the civilian suit the general wore—that one of the newsmen said in a kind of tired way: "This is where we came in."

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, head of selective service, had called a news conference yesterday at 3 p. m. to talk about the draft. He had been head of selective service in World War II and has been ever since.

In those World War I days, when Hershey called a news conference, he always wore his uniform. Yesterday he wore civilian clothes. But nothing else seemed different.

He sat at the same kind of table, leaning his elbows on it. He had the same crew haircut. Behind him, as in other days, stood an American flag. And, as usual, Lt. Col. Irving W. Hart was close beside him.

Hart, who has been Hershey's public relations officer for years, wore his uniform. So did Hershey's other aides. And, as usual, the room was stuffy and packed with newsmen.

Hershey seemed a little more relaxed than he was during the last war. But then, of course, he was tensely up to his neck in a war. And today's fighting hasn't reached the stage of world war.

Only last week President Truman told the armed forces they could use the draft, if necessary, to get the men they needed. But over the weekend the armed forces didn't talk of using the draft. They talked of getting volunteers.

So when Hershey started talking it was about the way the selective service boards—the draft boards—would operate if the armed forces finally asked the boards to draft men.

One of the newsmen asked Hershey if college men would be deferred. Not just because they were college men, Hershey said. But the newsmen persisted in knowing whether for any reason college students could get draft deferment.

Although Hershey is head of the whole draft set-up, he didn't know the answer and had to ask one of his uniformed aides. The man said college students could be deferred, but only until the end of the term year in which they would have been drafted.

On the whole, there was no tension in the room, since the draft was something to be used in the future, if needed. And when the conference ended, the newsmen went off to phone their offices on what Hershey had said.

(He talked of the numbers of men that could be called up and those in the various classifications.)

But just about this time other newsmen were phoning their of-

Nursing Activities
In County Schools

In line with a recent story in these columns concerning the various phases of the health program in Warren borough schools, it is noted that a great deal of similar work is being done in county schools by the nine school nurses and the corps of state nurses.

Summing up such work in the past year, the nurses' report shows the following corrections have been made in follow-up work after physical examinations and it is anticipated many more will be made before the new school term starts in the fall:

Tonsils removed, 114; hernia repaired, 4; defective hearing, 3; nasal obstructions, 4; dental work, 514; glasses obtained in cases of defective vision, strabismus, etc., 184; orthopedic defects, 71; rheumatic fever treated, 2; appendectomies performed, 5; while the following troubles were scored on the record as one each: skin graft repair, anemia, thyroid operation, diabetic treated, circumcision, hydrocele, scabies, ring worm.

Many of the corrections were taken care of by parents and much of the work was done by physicians and dentists who donated their time. In other cases, 65 corrections were secured through the Department of Public Assistance allotment set aside by the state for that purpose, and 64 pairs of glasses were provided by the Lions Club from its blind treasury.

In addition to the school work outlined in the state nurses' report, activities of the chest clinic from July, 1949, to the same month in 1950 showed 16 new cases of active tuberculosis found; 217 return visits made; 196 new patients seen, these being contacts of active cases and suspects; 8 patients were hospitalized at tuberculosis sanatoriums. Mantoux tests or x-ray examinations were made on all of these patients.

Eyes from a couple of miles away in the pentagon, where the armed forces do business. They had a bulletin.

The bulletin said the army just announced it wanted the draft boards to start drafting and to get them 20,000 men as soon as possible. Hershey's office later said he had no knowledge of this army decision when he was holding his news conference.

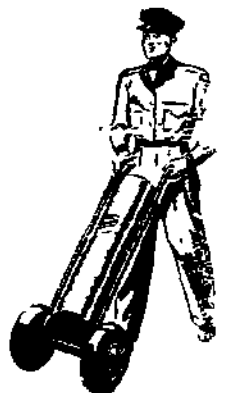

This story is being told like this so you'll see a little of the Washington picture as it is unfolding. Ever since the Korean crisis broke a couple of weeks ago, decisions have been made on a day-by-day basis.
